Re: Continuation of Classes - Remote Learning

To our wonderful college community of students, their families and friends, our faculty, administrators, and staff:

I greatly appreciate your patience, flexibility, and support as we and all members of our community continue to navigate the issues associated with the unique and complex challenge. I am very happy to announce our commitments to continuing your education. As you know, we are all in this together. This is a worldwide challenge and, therefore, each and every one of us is involved. Together, we will meet, if not exceed, the directives.

Walnut Hill College's number one priority is the health and safety of every student and staff member. We truly do care about each and every individual. We will continue our close monitoring and extra efforts to keep everyone well and "learning and earning credits". You are on the road to your success!

Our faculty has been researching and developing effective skills to continue your education via remote learning. We have identified wonderful platforms and programs that will make your remote experiences lively, informative, engaging, and enjoyable.

On Monday, March 23, 2020, all Lecture and Supervised Lab courses will begin convening remotely.

All Production and Operations courses are suspended until further notice.

All Lecture and Supervised Lab courses will follow their original course schedule meeting on Zoom, rather than face-to-face on campus, until further notice.

Walnut Hill College strives to provide you with the utmost in quality education, and we will continue to do so given the current circumstances. We will keep you updated as to how the college and classes will operate moving forward. Your continued flexibility and understanding is greatly appreciated.
